

Love is on the Air at WSIU Radio

Public radio fans...now is the time to offer someone special in your life a sweet treat for Valentine's Day by supporting WSIU Radio in our 12th Annual "Love is on the Air" membership campaign. Regional sponsors are The Chocolate Factory in Golconda and Mail Boxes Etc. in the Murdale Shopping Center in Carbondale.

Launched in 1997, this special campaign has become a popular Valentine's Day tradition, for the love of public radio. You're invited to surprise your sweetheart, parents, children, friends, coworkers, or other loved ones with regular or sugar-free, hand-made, gourmet chocolates from The Chocolate Factory.

Our staff and volunteers have fun every year providing these Valentine's Day treats to our supporters and public radio fans. Both varieties are available in half-pound boxes for a donation of $45, one-pound boxes for a donation of $60, and two-pound boxes for a donation of $100.

Each beautifully wrapped box includes a gift card with your personal message. You provide the delivery address and personal message for each gift card and Mail Boxes Etc. will ship orders anywhere in the U.S. on or before February 14.

To order, call Susan Patrick at (618) 453-6184, call our 24-hour pledge line at (800) 745-9748, or order online at www.wsiu.org. Supplies go quickly, so we encouraged you to order right away!

A special thanks to Linda Meherg of The Chocolate Factory for donating her delicious chocolates, and David Klapproth of Mail Boxes Etc. for providing delivery services!

WSIU Radio is committed to providing you with programming that feeds your mind, inspires your imagination, and improves your quality of life. This February, our health-related programming will have you thinking about your heart in a whole new way!

In cooperation with American Heart Month, WSIU Radio will present new segments of our Morning

Coming Up on Morning Conversations

Conversations radio series Keep the Beat, airing Thursday mornings at 5:29am, 6:33am, and 8:33am beginning February 5.

Hosted by reporter and morning news anchor Jennifer Fuller, Keep the Beat will reveal how local hospitals are collaborating to provide immediate treatment for emergency heart conditions. We'll investigate how new health care procedures and technologies are making treatment better for residents in our region, learn more about common children's heart conditions, and discover how doctors are developing new techniques to care for their youngest patients. You'll also learn how podiatrists are helping with some cardiovascular conditions. You can also tune in on WSIU Radio's podcast page at www.wsiu.org.

Later this spring, Morning Conversations will feature interviews with SIU President Glenn Poshard, SIUC Chancellor Sam Goldman, Southern Illinois Symphony Maestro Ed Benyas, and other community members in the news. Stay tuned!

SIRIS Welcomes New Staff and Volunteers

operations assistant. Cook previously worked as a broadcast programmer for SIRIS and says that the skills he developed while working at SIRIS enabled him to take on the task of programming the daily broadcast.

SIRIS also would like to welcome our new volunteer readers Sarah Ritcheson, Nathan Beck, and Kenneth Lindquist!

As we greet our newest students and volunteers, we also bid a sad farewell to Shatesha Boyce, our former operations assistant who is currently serving as the Americorps volunteer coordinator at the Jackson County Health department. We also say goodbye to Teja Adusumalli, who graduated in December 2008. Both students were a great asset to SIRIS and will be missed by all!

Would you like to gain new skills and make friends while helping others? We're looking for volunteer readers to assist Monday-Friday from 1-5pm.

Learn more and sign up today by calling (618) 453-4354 or email vickie.devenport@wsiu.org.

WSIU is my source for inspiration and connecting with my family.

- Susan Drone Prickett, Carbondale IL

Public broadcasting has something for everyone. For Susan Drone Prickett, WSIU Radio is a source for family connections. While cleaning her house one weekend, she heard a story on WSIU featuring a woman who had written a book about raising a horse in her house. Susan soon found herself laughing to the point of tears and decided to call her parents to share this unusual story, explaining how the horse drank out of the bathtub and watched television with the family.

"My father finally exclaimed, 'Well, Susan, what's so unusual about that?'," she says. "At that point, we all enjoyed a hearty, healthy laugh because the story wasn't so different from what it was like growing up on our family farm. It's amazing how listening to public radio can take me right back to my childhood."
